LAGO DI GARDA – Trentino Alto Adige & Veneto

Lake Garda is the largest in Italy and is very popular for many different reasons: the scenery, with the mountains providing a scenic backdrop to the lake; the picturesque towns along the shores of the lake and borghi in the hinterland. And for the numerous water-based activities found both on the lake such as beaches, boating and surfing as well as the opportunity to hike and explore the surrounding countryside.

Here we offer just a small selection of the most representative borghi of this area

San Giorgio di Valpolicella is located on a hill top, tight around its pieve (church) and is built with the same limestone on which rests firmly. The borgo, surrounded by vineyards and olive trees and next to its ancient marble caves, offers an enchanting panorama that stretches from Lake Garda to Verona, from Valpolicella to the Po Valley.

MILAN – Lombardia

The ancient Mediolanum, as it has been called by the Romans since the third century B.C. (a name of Celtic origin meaning "in the middle of the plains"), rose up around 400 B.C. It was the capital of the Western Roman Empire, and thanks especially to Saint Ambrose, it became one of the most active centers of the new Christian world. Milan has always been a rich and important city, a place full of various famous artists and offers a particular assortment of churches, buildings and monuments. The Sforza Castle is one of the symbols of the city together with the Madonnina and the Galleria Vittorio Emanuele II. All those sights together are just few reasons for a visit.

The VENUE

A scenic view of a lakeside town, likely in Italy, featuring a prominent church tower and buildings reflected in the calm water. The scene is captured from a low angle, showing the wake of a boat in the foreground. The town is built on a slight rise, with a mix of traditional and modern architecture. The water is dark and still, providing a clear reflection of the buildings and the sky. The sky is a clear, bright blue, and the overall atmosphere is peaceful and picturesque.
